NORTHERN IRELAND TOPS THE POLL

The Report of the Electoral Commission published today includes the results of a survey of voters across the United Kingdom of their satisfaction with the way the General Election was run. Voters in Northern Ireland were significantly more satisfied than those in any other part of the United Kingdom. The actual figures were –

Northern Ireland	86%
Wales	73%
Scotland	71%
England	68%

Douglas Bain, the Chief Electoral Officer said –

“I welcome the Electoral Commission’s Report and the independent evidence that voters satisfaction with the electoral process is much higher here than anywhere else in the United Kingdom.”
